

Course number		G-ECON31 6A596 LE38 G-ECON31 6A596 LE43 G-ECON31 6A596 LE44
Course title (and course title in English)	Historical Approaches to Business and Economics B Historical Approaches to Business and Economics B		Instructor's name, job title, and department of affiliation	Graduate School of Economics Professor, KUROSAWA TAKAFUMI
Target year	1st year students or above	Number of credits	1	Year/semesters	2023/Intensive, Second semester
Days and periods	Intensive	Class style	Lecture	Language of instruction	English
[Overview and purpose of the course]
"Historical Approach to Business and Economics B" is an interactive small-group course, which invites prominent business historians from abroad each year and is offered in a short-term intensive course format (some courses may be offered online). This course will introduce students to major concepts, debates, and techniques in business and economic research, from the perspective of career development of prospective historians. The course will involve both lectures and case discussions, so students should come to class prepared to engage with the reading. Students will also prepare a short presentation and paper based on one of the topics mentioned below, or on a topic of their own choosing that is approved by the instructor. The lecturers for the 2023 course are still being finalized, but in the past we have invited researchers from Europe and the U.S., including Prof. Dan Wadhvani of the University of Southern California, and this year we plan to make a decision by September 2023 and announce it before the start of the second semester. 【 This course is an international collaborative course that is being offered by GSE professors in collaboration with invited overseas scholars 】
[Course objectives]
After completing the course, students will be able to identify major approaches and debates in evolutionary and historical approaches to business and economics and will be able to apply these in their own research.
[Course schedule and contents]
This course will be held in the form of an intensive course between October and mid-March. Since there is a possibility that the lecture will be held after mid-February, credits for this lecture cannot be included in the requirements for completion of the program. This class will have the following seven sessions <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Introduction: The Historical Life 2. Social Science History: Personal Savings, Financial Institutions and Modernity 3. Microhistory 4. History and Management Theory: Organizations in Time 5. Toward a Historical Consciousness 6. Agency and Change, Then and Now: Entrepreneurial History 7. Student Presentations
----- Continue to Historical Approaches to Business and Economics B(2)

Historical Approaches to Business and Economics B(2)

[Course requirements]

Enthusiasm for the study of history and research is very beneficial.
High-level knowledge of economics, sociology and history is not required.

[Evaluation methods and policy]

Contribution to the in-class discussion 20%
Presentation 40%
Writing Assignment 40%

*Major Assignment: The major assignment for the course will be the delivery of a short presentation and a secondary source research paper on one of several topic options.

[Textbooks]

Not used

[References, etc.]

(Reference books)

Students should read the designated literature before the class. We will announce the list of references in PandA or Kulasis by the start of semester, and we will upload these references in the course materials section of PandA.

(Related URLs)

<https://agst.jgp.kyoto-u.ac.jp/>

[Study outside of class (preparation and review)]

Students are required to read all assigned literature in advance of each lecture.

(Other information (office hours, etc.))

Office Hour: Every day after class

*Please visit KULASIS to find out about office hours.